SPAIN.

LONDON, September 18.—The Daily News says: The question as to an improved understanding between Spain and the United States remains unsolved. While the latter is impatient of delay, the former is sending armaments that may precipitate a conflict. The Spanish exchequer is virtually empty, and temporary loans are resorted to at increasingly onerous terms. This fact must be considered in estimating the possibility of the pending crisis.

The proposition to call Prince Thomas, the young Duke of Genoa, and nephew of King Victor Emanuel, to the throne of Spain under the joint regency of Montpensier, Serano and Rivero, is gaining ground.

The Spanish frigate Amanza is under orders for Cuba.

LONDON, September 18.—The Spectator says: War between Spain and the United States, on account of Cuba, appears like a moral impossibility, but is universally believed in just now in Spain. The war enthusiasm there is gathering fast. Minister Sickles' proposition is inconsistent with the precedent furnished by the conduct of the United States in 1861. What with Spanish pride and American sympathies, the situation is very critical. It is difficult to believe Spain—with a divided people, a bankrupt treasury, one colony in revolt, others to lose, nothing to win—can seriously contemplate war with one of the greatest powers on earth.

The Saturday Review holds that if the proposal of General Sickles is accurately reported there is no ground for complaint against America for making an offer to Spain in the character of a disinterested mediator. It is possible that some of these people in Spain who urge the sending of reinforcements to Cuba, desire the absence of the army. Without a military force, can the Regent retain the power of the Cortez against the Republicans and Carlists. The friends of Isabella might be formidable in the absence of the army. The Government must see that to sacrifice the army will not save Cuba.

Alluding to the desire of the Americans to possess Cuba, the writer thinks the arguments of Mr. Buchanan in favor of annexation must be more agreeable to their ears now that slavery has been suppressed. But whether it is their true interest to include an alien and uncongenial population in the Union is a question for future history.

MADRID, September 19.—The Spanish press has been in a complete ferment of excitement and indignation since the presentation of Gen. Sickles' notes to the Government. Some of the journals abuse the American Minister sadly. They say he was sent here solely because he was known to be a strong partisan of Cuban annexation. Gen. Sickles emphatically denies the assertion that his mission refers only to Cuba. He insists that he never broached the question of the cession of the island to the United States, but has merely hinted that the American Government is willing to interpose its friendly offices for the settlement of the Spanish difficulties with Cuba.

The Times calls to mind that the first anniversary of the revolution in Spain has passed and none of the evils, laid to the charge of the Bourbons have diminished, but rather increased. There is greater distress and confusion and less concord, efficiency and public security. The policy of the government in the provinces is reviewed and its action there contrasted with its action in Madrid. The Times acknowledges that all is done for the best, but the conflicting views and diverging tendencies of some members of the Government, produce helplessness and improvidence among them. There is hardly a ruling man in the whole Government. Such as they are Spain must accept them. The country has no better and must make the most of them.

MADRID, September 19.—It is rumored that Napoleon has telegraphed to the French Minister at Washington that France desires that Cuba shall be retained by Spain. General Prim, it is said, has had a second interview with Nadoleon, and Lord Clarendon, British Foreign Secretary, has also had another audience with the Emperor.

A decree, proclaiming liberty of worship in Cuba, will appear in the Official Gazette to-morrow.

It is probable that Becrra or Romero will be sent to Cuba to resolveon the spot all questions of administration.

The embarkation of reinforcements for Cuba has commenced.

It is confidently asserted that Admiral Topete will command the fleet.

The prospect of the Duke of Genoa as a candidate for the throne is improving. A marriage with the daughter of the Duke of Montpensier is proposed.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, September 18.—The Times in an article on the Byron story says:

Mrs. Stowe admits she was consulted with by Lady Byron only on the expediency of publishing a true account of the separation, and owns that she dissuaded her from doing so. She omits to produce adequate authority for her statement. Whatever there may be behind this revelation, Mrs. Stowe was wrong in publishing information which was supplied in order that she might give an opinion as to what action should be taken upon it.

M. Schlessinger, in a letter to the Cologne Gazette, states that Wentworth repeatedly assured him that Lady Byron desired the unhappy story of her marriage to die with her, and that the family papers contained no secrets.

Thomas John Penn, the last descendant of the William Penn family, is dead.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—A riot occurred yesterday between the porters on a strike and others who refused to join them. Both sides were strengthened by their friends, and the riot threatened to become formidable, when the military appeared, and charging into the crowd of rioters dispersed them. Several persons were injured, but none killed.

THE CAPITAL.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18, 1869.

RETURN OF SECRETARY BOUTWELL.

Secretary Boutwell has arrived and was at the Department this morning transacting business.

THE UNITED STATES AND SPAIN.

Much of what is stated as to the course of the administration on the subject of Cuban independence, is mere matter of conjecture. All that is certainly known is an offer of mediation, through Minister Sickles, to the Spanish government. There are no present indications of the acknowledgment of belligerent rights. The policy of the administration has been, and is, to enforce the neutrality laws, and to act in good faith according to treaty obligation.

There is no question that it deeply sympathizes with the Cubans in their struggle, and will continue to exercise its friendly offices with discretion with the view to effect a solution of the question satisfactory to all.

John Jay Knox, Deputy Comptroller of Currency, has received the appointment, and decided to accept the Cashiership of the Union Square National Bank, which has recently been organized in the city of New York.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, September 18, 1869.

The railroad lines south of Louisville, Ky., especially those running to Nashville, Memphis, New Orleans, and Mobile, are all blockaded with freight, and agents of the different lines in New York are, in consequence, refusing to give rates or receipts to points beyond Louisville. This blockade does not interfere with the passenger business.

The meeting of railroad men held in this city in the early part of the week on the subject of increasing the rates of freights, resulted in nothing.

The Tammany primary elections passed off harmoniously to-night.

Frightful Railroad Accident.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHARLESTON, September 18.—A terrible accident occurred to the train from Charleston, on the South Carolina railroad, just before daylight this morning. A large tree had fallen across the trestle at Congaree Swamp, and the engine and part of the train were precipitated in the swamp. The engine blew up setting fire to the cars and trestle. About sixty feet of trestle burnt. None of the passengers were injured. Engineer Hargrave and fireman, ——— Gilbert, were killed, and fireman Burns seriously wounded.

A Cuban Privateer.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BOSTON, September 18.—An iron-clad steamer, of fifteen hundred tons, with a large body of men aboard, was boarded by some of the Gayhead Indians near New Bedford last night. She carries eighteen guns, had steam up, and was taking material on board from a schooner which was alongside. The steamer is believed to be a Cuban privateer.

Garrett, her mate, charged with cruelty to Frank Mooney whose case has been progressing several days before a justice. A large crowd of boatmen and levee laborers collected on the front of the boat, and threats were made of lynching Garrett, but no demonstration was made. Mooney has sued Garrett for five thousand dollars in addition to the suit he has against the owners of the boat.

These gentlemen are on a tour of inspection over the Toledo, Wabash and Western railroad, with the view of consolidating it with the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern road, and will report upon the result of their examination to the stockholders of the latter road.

The Decatur and East St. Louis road, which is virtually a branch of the Toledo and Wabash, will be pushed to a speedy completion, and will open a new and short route from this city to the East.

The consolidated lines will be about $1,800 miles long, and will be called the Lake Shore, Chicago and Wabash road.

The party took a survey of the harbor this morning in a ferry boat provided for the occasion, and examined the proposed site of the Decatur and East St. Louis road on the Island, opposite this city, and subsequently took a drive around the city and its suburbs.

They left for Springfield, Ill., at four P. M., on a special train and will, to-morrow, inspect that portion of the Toledo, Wabash & Western road lying between Springfield and Quincy.

On searching their lodgings, $56,000 in bonds and a large amount of jewelry and silverware was found. Clark and Rose, while engaged in this business, labored daily in the factory. It was mere accident that they were detected. Many of the articles found in their hiding place have been identified as the fruit of the robberies committed. A POPULAR NOVA SCOTIA SONG.

When British drums are silent,
And British guns are gone,
We'll wear our chains no longer,
We'll bow us down to none.
The north may come against us,
The gladder we will be,
For we'll call our men together,
And well march up from the sea:
'Twill be free and royal marching,
That marching from the sea.

Let Canada come eastward,
With all her traitor-knaves.
We'll meet them on the mountains,
And give them foreign graves:
With rifle and with tavone't
We'll keep the country free,
And we'll die upon the mountains,
For our homes beside the sea:
Men can die upon the mountains
Who were born beside the sea.

With tariff and with taxes
They hold our people down,
But their reign will soon be over,
When they lose the British crown:
For like the men of Boston
Who threw overboard the tea,
We'll take Canadian chattels
And we'll cast them in the sea.
We'll have wealth within our headlands,
We'll have ships upon the sea.

COVODE'S DISTRICT.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ZOZONIA, INDIANA CO., PA.

With all the frauds, chicanery and corruption of popular elections, no better system of government ever can be devised than the representative, and in spite of all efforts to the contrary, no voting constituency will long be misrepresented in the men of their choice. One is impressed with this fact in going over that part of New York which elected Morrisey. No man so fit to represent those people as the great, successful gambler and pugilist, and in looking around, and exploring this region, I have been strongly impressed with the suitability of the representation of these people, by stout old John Covode.

Congress does not present a wider contrast than Covode or Morrisey; the country has no wider contrast than their constituencies. Of the latter it is not necessary to speak; but the former is a curiosity. Here, in almost every house, stands the spinning wheel; here are the women who use it. One of our nearest neighbors has two looms, the regular old fashioned loom, none of your flying shuttle concerns, she and her hired girl sit side by side, and weave blankets, twilled and plain, bags of flax and tow, table linen and toweling, plain and bird-eye, carpets, of rags and yarn, at the moderate price of twelve and a half cts. per yard.

This mistress and maid not only sit side by side at work, but at table, in church, and wheresoever they may happen to be. Across the field the hired help of a full farmer was married to the son and heir, a few weeks ago, with the entire approval of all parties. Class in society is as foreign to the ideas of these people as India's castes. The women work a field, roll logs, burn brush, harrow, rake and bind grain, rake hay, mow back, hoe corn and potatoes, raise flax, pull it, rot it, break it, scutch it, hackle and spin it, snare, bleach, cut, make and wear it; raise sheep, cut the wool from their backs, and put it through every process necessary to convert it into clothing. The men calculate to "take the heavy end of the log," and men and women work together in the old style fashionable all over the country in Revolutionary times. The houses and furniture belong to that period, except the log fire. Cook stoves are in every house and upholstered furniture, none about!

Our piano is so great a curiosity that people have come miles to see and hear it; they sometimes come miles to carry us a basket of fresh fruit and vegetables. They take it for granted that you are to come and see them, and stay for coffee—do not use tea, and when you go the coffee is made by the good wife, while the husband leaves his team in the furrow to come and show you welcome. The best the house affords is set before you. The hired girl and farm hand, if there are any, with the children, gather around the board with you, and the head of the house bows and says grace, perhaps in English, perhaps in German. If the latter, there is a German Bible lying somewhere about for the old folks, and one in English for the children.

There is sure to be a Bible in every house, with sharply defined ideas of its teachings on contested points. There is a newspaper, too, and settled opinions as to the policy it advocates. Here your editor finds one or more critics in every house, and some of them as dogmatical as any doctor of divinity care to be. There is a shelf of books in the living room, which generally show use; among them are one or more on "the late unpleasantness between the States." Almost every house furnished one or more soldiers to the war. Some of the women lived with only one, two or three little children, on the farm, carried on the farming operations, took the children through the whooping cough, cared for horses and cattle, and had enough to spare of their own living, while the husband and father fought for the old flag.

There are no poor folks in this region, none who would accept alms and no one finer than his neighbor. Women go to church in a calico sun bonnet or something more pretentious, just as it suits them; and men in coats or shirt sleeves according to the weather.

It is amusing to think of the efforts in city Fairs to get up "New England kitchens," as if they were things of the dread past. Here, less than a day's journey from your city, we have plenty of kitchens with the old time accompaniments, Pennsylvania kitchens, just as primitive as the New England article.

You will readily see by this, that John Covode is the right man in the right place. What though there are some boroughs in the district which put on airs of gentility, and might be properly represented by an aspiring lawyer! There are plenty of genteel Congressmen who might take a step fatherly interest in them, and see that their right of fashion plates is not infringed; but there is but one John Covode, and I suspect there are more communities like this hidded away like linen, in other constituencies where they are so outborne by modern improvements, that they are overlooked in the representation. These our sturdy old Spartan could take under his fatherly protection. One thing is certain; Covode is the representative of an era thought to have passed away, and which I find here, hale and hearty. Like Webster, the good of the good old time, still lives and ought to have its representatives on the floors of Congress.

Sprague represents the spinning jenny, Covode the old spinning wheel by which our grandmothers clothed our armies in the days of the Revolution; and I, as one of the constituents of this district, claim to be represented by the stout old American gentleman, who has so large an allowance of common sense and old-fashioned honesty, without the polish which belongs to the days of improved machinery. JANE G. SWISSHELM.

LETTER FROM COLORADO.

(Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

DU BOIS, BIG SANDY FORK OF ARKANSAS RIVER, COLORADO, September 7, 1869.

EDITORS GAZETTE: Two months have passed since I wrote last, in which I have been too busy to write a satisfactory letter. During this time our survey has progressed one hundred miles westward from Sheridan, the present western terminus of the Kansas Pacific railway passing near Fort Wallace and Cheyenne Wells and striking the Big Sandy ten miles below this place, near the junction with the proposed line to the Pacific by the thirty-fifth parallel.

My position as topographer and office engineer of the party in the field affords great facilities for acquiring a thorough knowledge of the country, but as yet I have found nothing to modify in my former accounts. I had not overrated its value for pasturage, or for cultivation where irrigation is possible, nor the health giving qualities of the climate, to which nothing eastward is comparable. Per contra there is no timber except a little cottonwood on the banks of streams, no coal till we get beyond the plains, and no stone west of Fort Wallace, where there is plenty of beautifully tinted magnesian limestone, so soft as to be sawn more easily than pine wood.

The scarcity of water for ordinary uses is readily overcome by shallow wells in the dry watercourses or by deeper ones on higher ground, avoiding the patches of alkaline earth which make many of the natural pools unfit to use. Artesian wells may ultimately be used in addition to the few permanent streams for irrigation, the almost constant wind affording cheap power for pumping and the geological nature of the country, a wide, shallow trough, of Termian or upper carboniferous strata, filled with diluvial drift from the Rocky Mountains, giving good prospect of obtaining sufficient water by wells reaching through the drift. The heads of streams tap the permanent underground contents of water, which are generally the sole drainage of the country. These pass freely through their sandy course, and when interrupted by impermeable masses appear as springs, generally of good water, but soon sink again, often to reappear, making a succession of springs of the same water, just as landscape gardeners sometimes do to economize water.

The Big Sandy, by which we are camped, now a dry sandy bed four hundred feet wide, but in flood a torrent, with an average fall of nearly twenty feet per mile, has an underground current, which evades the sand so as to leave it in places a loose mixture of sand and water, so unstable as to be ready to collapse under the weight of animals passing across, thus forming dangerous quicksands.

On the same stream, the same cause produces a succession of deep pools of cool, palateable water, wherever the evasion reaches the surface. These are separated by long intervals of solid, moss-covered ground, which has none of the appearance of a water course.

A few miles east of this place, a remarkable depression, called Eureka Basin, ten miles in width, has been worn out by surface floods and the wind taking up the loose soil and depositing it on the grassy bluffs around in fantastic sand, hills. This depression is two hundred feet below the general level of the plains, and considerably below the Big Sandy, which flows along a ridge formed of the debris which it brings from the base of the mountains, but decends so rapidly as to be low enough twenty miles from here to receive the drainage of the basin.

The drift from the mountains, of which these plains are formed, abounds in many places in fossils. Twenty miles west of Fort Wallace we found a fossil saurian whose living length was nearly twenty feet. Petrified wood is common. On Fossil Creek, east of Sheridan, several mastadon and many other organic remains have been found. At Antelope Station, Nebraska, several new species of horses have been unearthed. Altogether the plains seem to be the most promising of all fields for paleontological research. Dr. Foster, now President of the American Scientific Association, thinks he has gathered, chiefly from this region, sufficient evidence to establish the existence of pre-Adamic races of men. Whether this be so or not, the incohate condition of the country and the blending of the diluvial period into the present is easily apparent, and here seems to be the door by which to pass from the present to geological periods.

Having given this letter a rather earthy character, I shall in others take up other subjects, among them the social characteristics of an uninhabited country.

Mysteries of the Mad House—A Pearl Street Merchant Wants to Get Out—A Writ of Habeus Corpus Issued—Family Secrets Said to be Involved.

A gentleman confined in the Bloomingdale Lunatic Asylum wrote to Mr. John B. Townsend, requesting him to initiate measures to secure his release from confinement. The writer of the letter is Mr. Henry Frothingham, formerly a merchant in Pearl street, and who previous to his confinement, always acted like a sane man. On receipt of this communication Mr. Townsend proceeded to the Asylum for the purpose of holding an interview with Mr. Frothingham, which the authorities of that institution positively denied, referring him, however, to Mr. Frothingham's brother for the particulars of the case. When the latter was called on, he informed Mr. Townsend that his brother was hopelessly insane, and described a few of his freaks, which plainly demonstrated a feeble brain. These assertions were communicated to the alleged lunatic, who in turn denied them in the most emphatic terms. Under these circumstances, Mr. Townsend last Saturday applied to Mr. Justice Barbour of the Superior Court, for a writ of habeus corpus, which was readily granted.

The alleged lunatic, who appears to be possessed of some share of common sense, is said to be the depositary of a mysterious family secret, the revelation of which is feared by the other members of the family.—N. Y. Times.

STRANGE DISCOVERY.

Ancient Ruins at Saratoga—What Forgotten Race Drank and Bathed at the Springs Ages Ago?

(From the Saratoga Post.)

In making excavations for the foundation walls of the bottling house, at the Star Spring, among other evidences of an occupancy of this interesting locality by a former people, and for purposes similar to those for which this spring is now famous—the recuperation of health—the workmen laid bare a range of vats, some half dozen in number, which had evidently been used for bathing purposes. The remains of a wall, doubtless of another century, were plainly developed, one portion being entire for a distance of thirty-five feet, and which ran along the south side of this row of vats, some five feet from the most southern vat; but whether these were inside or outside of the building, there is nothing developed, as yet, to determine. Our own opinion is that they were outside the building, which rested upon the wall, and may, probably, have been part of another establishment, and unlikely of a different age.

To the north of this wall, and a little west of the vats, the workmen came to a large black oak tree of more than two feet in diameter, with the bark on, and with the exception of the sap portion of the wood, some two inches in depth, the substance of the tree was as sound as ever. This tree was not more than four feet from the surface, we should judge; but the appearance of the soil above and around it forbade the idea that it had ever been exhumed before, or seen the light of day for centuries. It was imbedded in a deposit of pure alluvian, so purely vegetable that the black mass spaded up, to use the words of the laborers, "like old cheese."

The deposits that surrounded the tree were similar to that found in most of our morasses, and the pores of the wood having imbibed the darker fluid, the timber, though sound, as we have said, was of a dark color. A thousand years may have passed away since this patriarch of the morass has been cut down. The deposit in which it was imbedded did not come up to the surface, and the strata above it was evidently of no recent origin. The vats, or bathing tubs, were of rude construction, and it is difficult to determine in what century they were used. The "oldest inhabitants," whose familiarity with the location extends back to three score years, can tell nothing of their use, or even of their existence. The remains and other evidences of antiquity brought to light in the recent operations at this spring show, unmistakably that a former age and other people knew of the virtue of these waters.

Seeing the Bugs—One of the Absurdities of the Middle Ages.

In the Middle Ages the German peasant suffered constantly from the ravages of enormous swarms of injurious insects upon his crops, and his only means of defence was to institute legal proceedings against his little enemies, before either the legal or ecclesiastical courts. Such a procedure now appears ridiculous; but it was then the prevailing idea that every criminal must be punished according to to his crime, no matter whether the guilty were rationally responsible or not.

These processes against insects were in the highest degree curious. Special rules were prepared for them; many "legal gentlemen" of that time made them their study, and books full of scholarly research were written upon the subject. The form of trial varied according to the class of accused animal. If the animal could be arrested, it made its appearance in person before the criminal court. If the criminals were small, such as snails, caterpillars, field-worms, etc., and the people had no means of capturing them, the case was brought before the clerical judges, the only authorities which were then considered capable of bringing down the punishment of Heaven upon the offenders. The owners of the devastated field or district appeared as accusers, and a person was usually appointed to defend the case of the insects. The minutest forms of justice were observed; both parties were heard, and the sentence pronounced by the clerical court. This was usually in the form of an exorcism or ban.

The delinquents received peremptory orders to leave the land they had devastated, and to withdraw to an uncultivated neighborhood, where they could not harm mankind, and which was often expressly designated to them. Such an order reads as follows: "Rats, caterpillers, snails, and all you unclean animals, which destroy the harvest of our brothers, begone out of the canton which you are devastating, and flee to such where you can injure nobody." If it was suspected that the mischief makers were instituted by the devil, the anathema was added to the command. In urgent cases, the insects were sentenced to leave the neighborhood at once, being allowed from three hours to three days's grace. Frequently the insects were warned before being brought to judgment, to desist from further injury, and to leave the land, and in order that they could not plead ignorance, this warning, as well as the Judge's sentence, was made known in the whole devastated district by means of public criers, amid the blowing of trumpets and the beating of drums.

Such processes are frequently recorded as having taken place from the fourteenth up to the eighteenth century. One such was instituted against masses of Spanish flies, which had committed much damage on a strip of land in the electorate of Mayence. The Judge, "in consideration of the smallness of the body and youth of the accused," had assigned them a guardian and advocate; and the latter very warmly defended the cause of his client. He did not deny the damage done by them, but urged that it was a case of necessity, and desired that they should have a territory allotted to them, where they could live like honest people, without doing others an injury. His demands were granted, and "even to day," says a writer of the period, "the inhabitants of that neighborhood concluded a contract with the Spanish flies by which they give up to them a certain strip of land, so that these chafers shall be sufficed therewith, and no more attempt to pass the boundaries agreed upon."

CURRAN, who was Master of the Rolls in Ireland in 1811, tells a characteristic anecdote of a member of the Irish Parliament. Boasting of his attachment to the jury system, "Mr. Speaker," said he "with trial by jury I have lived, and, by the blessing of God, with trial by jury will die!" "What," said Curran, in a stage whisper, "do you mean to be hanged, Jack?"

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, nervousness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto, and now ready to apply my inventionto stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c. —The Arkansas now at St. Louis, has been sold by Capt. D. S. H. Gilmore to Capt. A. H. Shaw and others, for $23,000. Capt. Shaw will place her in the Arkansas River trade.

—Capt. Jno. M. Hare, on his return from St. Louis, will take the present 17-inch cylinders out of the Glendale, and substitute instead 20-inch cylinders, which are now being cast here.

—The hull of Captain Dan. More's new boat was launched at Elizabeth, on Saturday morning and will be brought down as soon as lock No 2 is repaired. It is expected that she will be competed and ready for business in November.

—The Marietta Register, of Taursday, says: The steamer James Gilmore, with a tow, in trying to pass on the Ohio side of the channel pier of the railroad bridge at Belpre, struck and sank one of her barges within a few minutes, at the ferry landing.

—The Middleport Press, of Wednesday, says: The steamer H. Clay Wilson started from Syracuse, with a tow of Coal, last Thursday evening, and just as she was opposite the lower end of Middleport, burst her main steam pipe, which compelled her to land, in doing which she sunk a float containing 2,000 bushels of coal. No other damage was done, and no one injured.

—The Louisville Courier Journal, commenting on the disaster to the Phantom, particulars of which we gave yesterday, says: It seems that there were opposition lines running, and passengers report that the Clara Scott and the ill-fated steamer were racing at the time of the disaster. It is also stated that the same Government official who inspected the Cumberland inspected the Phantom. The local inspectors, in their report upon the Cumberland disaster, charge that the inspection was not properly made. We also have the statement that the boilers of the Phantom, as were those of the Cumberland, were known to be unsafe. Yet these boats were run with valuable lives and cargoes on board, until the inevitable result—destruction—follows. There is a terrible responsibility somewhere, and there should be a speedy and rigid invsetigation, and the responsibility fixed where it belongs.

LANCASTER COUNTY promises GEARY and WILLIAMS seven thousand majority. Allegheny should see that and go three thousand better.

THE Republicans of Westmoreland and Armstrong counties will hold a mass meeting at Apollo, in the latter county, on next Thursday evening. Governor GEARY, Colonel G. F. MCFARLAND and other eminent gentlemen will be present and speak.

Mr. BOUTWELL is doing admirably in the Treasury Department. In addition to the large reduction of the public debt actually accomplished, he promises to reduce it $10,000,000 more during the current month. This done, the total reduction since General GRANT was inaugurated will amount to $59,500,000. Just so many reasons why Mr. BOUTWELL should be continued in the place he occupies!

GOV. GEARY has appointed Colonel Thomas A. Scott, General George W. Cass, General J. K. Moorhead, Hon. Richard J. Haldeman, Colonel William Phillips, Henry McCormick, Esq., Hon. G. Dawson Coleman, Hon. Stanley Woodward, Edward J. Gay, Esq., and Hon. Hendrick B. Wright, delegates from Pennsylvania to the Southern Commercial Convention, to be held at Louisville, Ky., on the 12th of October next.

THE CABLE reports the Emperor NAPOLEON as talking most sensibly to Gen. PRIM as to what Spain ought to do in relation to Cuba. The reputed reply of PRIM, that the Spanish people are so infatuated about the island that they will not listen to reason is highly probable. Few governments are strong enough successfully to resist popular passions or prejudices. Meanwhile the United States has no need to hurry, except in the interests of common humanity.

IT WAS a most unfortunate political dilemma for Mr. PENDLETON that left him no other alternative than to offer himself as a sacrifice for the Ohio Democracy. His prospects were not good from the beginning, and each returning day finds him drifting farther away from the office. His popularity inside and outside his own State is waning, and when defeat comes "Young Greenbacks" will see his star rising no more, and history will record that in trying to hold together the fragments of a decaying political party he was himself caught and crushed in the ruins.

THE RECENT TERRIBLE CALAMITY at the Avondale Colliery has called forth the generous sympathy of the philanthropic throughout the entire country, and substantial aid has already poured in to the relief of the poor and distressed widows and orphans left by the accident to the usually cold charity of the world. To-day, at the Mayor's office, our citizens will meet together for the purpose of contributing their share to the fund, and we trust that there will be a large attendance, and that our good people will not be found backward in discharging a duty they owe their suffering fellow-creatures who have been especially chastened and afflicted by a Wise Providence.

THE PEOPLE of Spain, almost without exception, are indignant at the attitude of the United Stetes on the Cuban question. They are so unreasonable as to talk wildly of war, as the only adequate measure of redress. All this is natural enough. Spain is weak and proud; and all the more sensitive and blustering because of her weakness. But there is no probability that she will actually resort to war, and if she should, no special danger would be apprehended here.

But let the citizens of the United States reflect. When we were in the agonies of the rebellion, strong as we felt our States to be, we were sensitive to a degree we can now hardly realize. Besides it is manifest to all intelligent men, both in Europe and America, that Spain is destined to lose Cuba, and the United States to gain it. Much or little time may elapse before these results shall be evolved, but they are certain.

FROM ALL parts of the State comes the cheering news that the Republicans have become thoroughly aroused and are patiently awaiting opportunity to once more meet and vanquish the opposition. Local dissensions to distract our party now exist nowhere, an immunity not enjoyed by the Democracy. In Western Pennsylvania an average vote may be expected out, and Republican majorities will be obtained closely approximating those awarded in the Presidential election. In the interior, northern and eastern parts of the State, the work is going on, and no danger need be entertained that these sections will fall short of their accustomed figures. Altogether the outlook is good in Pennsylvania, and the question is now not whether GEARY and WILLIAMS shall be elected, but how much of a majority will they have? The larger the better it will be, and it behooves all good Republicans to work diligently and earnestly the few remaining days left to swell the figures so that the golden tidings of another Gettysburg victory in Pennsylvania may thrill with joy the loyal nation.

WHILE we deprecate the great majority of personal attacks made on the private and public character of the Democratic candidate for GOVERNOR, still we think there are several charges which have been put in a variety of shapes against him which, if true, must seriously damage him in the estimation of all good and true men.

It is openly charged, and without contradiction, that he used money to secure his nomination, and pledged to supply the sum necessary to buy his way into the highest office of the Commonwealth.

It is openly charged, and without contradiction, that his sympathies were ever with the armed rebels who aimed to destroy the Union of States to which our people are devotedly attached.

It is charged that to evade the payment of his just share of taxation to the authorized agents of the National Government, he changed his residence into a district where he was better enabled to conceal his vast wealth and income and thus impose his own part of the burden on less oppulent but more conscientious neighbors.

There are other charges made against Mr. PACKER which are equally as damaging as those quoted, and yet no satisfactory evidence has been adduced to show their falsity. It is sheer presumption for our Democratic friends to ask honest and intelligent citizens to cast their votes in his favor in the face of the record he presents.

DEALING WITH SANE AS INSANE.

Mr. FROTHINGHAM, a wealthy New York merchant, was in June last committed to the Bloomingdale Lunatic Asylum, which is a branch of the New York City Hospital. He was recently discharged under the operation of a writ of habeas corpus. The manner of his discharge proves nothing as to the real merits of the case, for most Judges are just now insane on the subject of insanity, releasing every patient who has not perpetrated a murder or other horrible crime within two days of the date of his appeal to the Court. It may be, however, that this gentleman was correct in his conception of his own case; which would only prove that men of fortune are sometimes in serious peril from their relations. In this view, the argument is just as conclusive against having family connections as against having Lunatic Asylums.

But sane men of another sort get treated as lunatics, and happily for themselves. A young man recently asked his father, who is a man of substance, to advance him money to make a start in business. The request was not complied with. Shortly after the young man put poison in the breakfast sugar-bowl of the family, and came near taking the lives of the father, mother and sisters. Had he succeeded, and escaped detection, he would have inherited money much more than sufficient for the business enterprise he contemplated. Instead of being handed over to the Quarter Sessions of the proper county, he was quietly slipped into the Bloomingdale Asylum, where he remains. No one will contend that the case of this young man is a hard one.

It is but fair to add that the members of Mr. FROTHINGHAM's family protest, and with apparent sincerity, that they have had no sinister designs upon his estate, and that he was insane when subjected to treatment.

Some of the Judges, in this and other States, are holding that no person shall be confined in a Lunatic Asylum, without his or her consent, unless liberty is a source of present danger to others. If such rulings shall generally prevail, it is folly to urge the adoption of additional precautions in committing to Asylums. In that case, the only true remedy will be found in giving up the Asylums altogether, and the sooner the better. The lunatics who consent to their own confinement are not in sufficient numbers to justify the maintenance of establishments for their use If the fact that a lunatic is dangerous can only be determined by the actual commission of murder, or some other crime of violence, within a day or two before application shall be made for commitment, it would be salutary for all dangerous lunatics to have reason enough left to vent their violence on the Judges.

SUGGESTIVE.

UDOLPHE WOLFE, who died on Staten Island on the 14th inst., is spoken of by the New York papers as once well known to the public by his extensive advertisements, and also as having died very rich. We have never known an extensive, persistent and judicious advertiser who failed to get rich. The experience of Mr. Wolfe has found its counterpart in nearly every case where his practice has been pursued. We do no not claim that every man who advertises freely dies rich; but only that success in business rarely fails to follow the practice—but fortunes thus made, are like fortunes obtained in any other way, liable to be lost by unwise speculation. The simple fact that judicious and persistent advertising is almost invariably rewarded by increase of business and ultimate affluence, is the point we present as undeniable and therefore worth knowing and trying. Those of our own patrons—who have continued longest and paid us most—bear the highest testimony to the rich resulting benefits. One of these assures us that his annual sales have been increased three hundred thousand dollars by constant advertising; another ascribes to advertising at least $100,000 increase of his worldly wealth. We might cite numerous kindred examples, but "a word to the wise is sufficient."

MESSRS. EDITORS: When you say President Grant is the first duly elected and inaugurated President who has visited Pittsburgh, you make a mistake. During the administration of James Monroe that revolutionary patriot visited Pittsburgh, and for nearly a week was the guest of the late Wm. Wilkins, who then resided in a stately mansion near the Monongahela bridge, and which was taken down by Messrs. Lyon & Shorb, to make way for the first Monongahela House, kept by Col. James Crossan, father of the present proprietor.

MINOR TOPICS.

How is it that California, which only began in earnest to be settled twenty years ago, now produces the keenest humorists of the land? Generally it is believed that a country does not produce a crop of that sort until the heavy work of clearing, settling and civilizing has been accomplished. Thus England has always kindly patronized America, patting her on the back and saying that in time she might produce a first class article of that sort, until recently, when we have taken the lead, and now the old country has not one "funny man" equal to any one half dozen Americans we could name. But of all our humorists only Lowell and Holmes excel the great California Phœnix, Twain and Bret Harte. These three men seem to have been born with an irresistible mission to make life both ridiculous and enjoyable to others. The first poor fellow only failed with himself and died a miserable death. Harte is the editor of the Overland Monthly, one of the best and most original periodicals on the far distant Pacific coast. While Mark Twain, the greatest and most irresistible, with more wit and humor than would glut Punch for a year, is healthy and happy, and editing a department in the Buffalo Express, through whose columns we hope to hear of him for years to come.

THE solicitors of the Byron family, Messrs. Wharton & Forbes, have published in the London Times a card which is the most important addition that has been made to the Stowe-Byron literature. It reproaches Mrs. Stowe for breach of trust and endeavors to reflect doubt upon the truth of that lady's assertions which they do not, however, deny. It seems that Lady Byron left her papers sealed and in the custody of three trustees who are to make that use of them which might seem to them to be best for the interests of her grandchildren. The solicitors assert that Mrs. Stowe was not one of those trustees, nor has she received the authority of either one of them to examine those papers; and close their statement with these words: "Lady Byron's own statement" is in the possession of those who love her memory too well to make a rash use of it, and if the world is ever to learn the true story of Lady Byron's life it will learn it from them."

SOMEHOW or other the ladies who are leading the movement which is to emancipate their sex do not succeed in keeping on the best of terms with the leaders of the public press. Last winter one of the most noted of the reformresses regaled an audience in Chicago with a tirade against the combined press of that city, interspersed with libelous personalities concerning the editors, calculated to provoke the mirth of her hearers. And now we read that Madame Olympe Audouard has quarreled with the editor of the Paris Figaro and challenged him to mortal combat. Thus affording the astounding spectacle of a woman who is seeking redress for the wrongs of her sex in a measure almost too advanced for the nineteenth century, seeking redress for personal wrongs in the duello which is one of the relics of the past. It is a pity that the leadership of this movement has fallen into such violent hands, for while many persons see much possible good and real justice in the proposed measure, almost necessarily decline to assist in putting more power into such intemperate hands.

IN SPITE of the Ku-Klux, conservatives and rebels who are not yet aware that the last dith has been reached, the carpet-baggers and sensible natives of the Southern States are bringing them around to a condition of prosperity which already almost equals and will doubtless soon surpass anything which they formerly knew. The estimate value of the cotton crop is, according to the Louisville Journal, about $324,000,000; and that of the other crops $380,000,000, which, with a population of not more than 11,000,000, gives an average of $64 a head. This exceeds the average of the Western States. When we reflect that this is in a section so recently declared to be completely ruined, and still, in many parts, politically unsettled, where land is very cheap and climate generally delightful, we can see nothing but a prosperity in the future that will far surpass anything that was ever even dreamed of in the days when the sin of slavery stained the great Eden of the American continent.

ALPHONSE KARR says that Malibrau, Sontag and Grist were greatly superior to any of the prima donnas of the present day. M. Karr's grandfather doubtless thought and said that the great singes of his youth greatly surpassed the young Malibrau and Grisi, and M. Karr's children, no doubt, will remember the startling superiority of Nillsen and Patti, when compared with the nightingales who will be making twenty thousand trancs a night a score of years from now. It is really singular how well our songstresses sing, considering the fact that they have been in a constant state of deterioration for ages. What a rousing basso King Solomon must have been, and yet if any of the audience of Deborah and Barak could have heard him how they would have pooh-poohed his best efforts. And as this same depreciation is noticeable in all the arts, may we not suppose that the reason the daughter of Saul despised King David in her heart when she saw him dancing and singing, was because she remembered how much better her royal father had danced and sung? The admirers of Tazlioni and Ellsler sneer at Morlacchi, but how they would have been jeered by King Herod and the other witnesses of Salome's fatal pirouetting. This constant deterioration seems to be a well established fact and should receive the attention of some of our curious savants.

PROBABLY Mrs. Grant, when she was in Pittsburgh, was not aware that she was in the immediate vicinity of the graves of some of her ancestors. Probably but few of our citizens are aware that Mrs. Grant, on her mother's side, is descended from an old Pittsburgh family—the Wrenshalls. But the fact is that old John Wrenshall, the maternal grandfather of the wife of the great General and President, now lies buried beside his two wives in the old graveyard of the First Presbyterian Church, where the stones that are over them may still be seen. A daughter of Mr. Wrenshall, by his first wife, married Col. Dent, of St. Louis, and was the mother of Mrs. Grant. The graves referred to lie about mid-way between the new chapel of Trinity Church and the edifice of the First Presbyterian congregation.

STATE POLITICS.

OWEN JONES is the Democratic candidate for State Senator in the Montgomery and Delaware district.

P. H. SHANNON, ex-Sheriff of Jefferson county, is Republican candidate for Assembly from Brookville.

A GRAND mass-meeting is to be held in Butler on the 24th inst., when Governor Geary is announced as the leading speaker.

HON. DANIEL KALBFUS, of Mauch Chunk, made a telling speech in Altoona on Friday, to a large, enthusiastic meeting.

GOVERNOR GEARY will speak at Parker's Landing October 5th, at Oil City October 6th, at Titusville October 17th, and at Meadville October 8th.

A. G. BROADHEAD, JR., of Carbon county, is the Democratic candidate for State Senator in the district composed of Carbon, Munroe, Pike and Wayne.

DR. A. M. CLARK presided at a large Republican meeting in Nicholson's Hall, Brookville, on Tuesday. Col. J. A. Nunes, of Philadelphia, and Gen. Harry White made stirring speeches.

HON. M. S. HUMPHREYS went to New Caste to speak on Tuesday, but owing to some mistake he was not met, nor did he reach the hall, until the crowd had been sent off with the announcement that the speakers had not arrived,

RECENTLY the Daily Miners' Journal, of Pottsville made some remarks on Alderman McMullin not very complimentary to him. Shortly after this publication, the editor receceived the following very pithy epistle, evidently from one of McMullin's crowd:

"Packer will be elected in spite of h—l, and maybe McMullin will be elected Secretary of State.

"If you were in this city and talk that way about Bill, you (both) would be strung up to a lamp post in ——— street, by Democrats.

"Geary is smart, but he don't come up to Packer, no how. Geary was in no war, but got his leg cut off in a saw-mill."

This shows the animus of the McMullin party. Their leader proclaims club law and murder at the election if he is not permitted to choose the officers in the Democratic wards, and his followers, imitating their great leader, proclaim death to all who treat him disrespectfully. Packer ought to be proud of this wing of his supporters.

The Iroquois on the War Path.

[From Proof-sheets of Parkman's new work "The Discovery of the Great West," now in Press; by Little, Brown & Co., of Boston.]

I have recounted the ferocious triumphs of the Iroquois in another volume. Throughout a wide semi-circle around their cantons they had made the forest a solitude—destroyed the Hurons, exterminated the Neutrals and the Eries, reduced the formidable Andastes to a helpless insignificance, swept the borders of the St. Lawrence with fire, spread terror and desolation among the Algonquins of Canada; and now, tired of peace, they were seeking, to borrow their own savage metaphor, new nations to devour. Yet it was not alone their homicidal fury that now impelled them to another war. Strange as it may seem, this war was in no small measure one of commercial advantage. They had long traded with the Dutch and English of New York, who gave them, in exchange for their furs, the guns, ammunition, knives, hatchets, kettles, beads and brandy which had become indispensable to them, Game was scarce in their country. They must seek their beaver and other skins in the vacant territories of the tribes they had destroyed, but this did not content them. The French of Canada were seeking to secure a monopoly of the furs of the north and west, and, of late, the enterprises of La Salle, on the tributaries of the Mississippi had especially roused the jealousy of the Iroquois, fomented, moreover, by Dutch and English traders. These crafty savages would fain reduce all these regions to subjection, and draw from thence an exhaustless supply of furs to be bartered for English goods with the traders of Albany. They turned their eyes first towards the Illinois, the most important, as well as one of the most accessible, of Western Algonquin tribes; and among La Salle's enemies were some in whom jealousy of a hated rival could so far override all the best interests of the colony that they could not scruple to urge on the Iroquois to an invasion which they hoped would prove his ruin. The chiefs convened, war was declared, the war dance was danced, the war song was sung, and five hundred warriors began their march. In their path lay the town of the Miamas, neighbors and kindred of the Illinois. It was always their policy to divide and conquer; and these forest Machiavels had intrigued so well among the Miamis, working craftily on their jealousy, that they induced them to join in the invasion, though there is every reason to believe that they had marked these infatuated allies as their next victims.

EPISCOPAL.

Colored Episcopal Church—Preliminary Meeting Yesterday.

Yesterday afternoon a preliminary meeting, looking to the establishment of an Episcopal Church organization among the colored people of our vicinity, was held in Christ Church, Union avenue, Allegheny. There was a full attendance of colored people, together with other friends from the white population favorable to the enterprise.

The exercises commenced at 4 o'clock, when the usual evening service was conducted by the Pastor, Rev. B. F. Brooke, D. D., Mr. Percival Beckett officiating as lay reader.

The Rev. Dr. Brooke then stated the object of the meeting, and said he had been considering the subject for some time. When he first came to Allegheny he was astonished to find that no organization for the colored people existed in the Episcopal Church. In his own church there was but one colored communicant, an old lady who had been attending the services for about twenty years. In conversation with a number of the colored people, he discovered that something in this direction was needed. After consulting with the members of his parish, who all seemed to favor the idea, he had concluded to attempt something in this direction, and for that purpose had called the meeting. The duty of the Episcopal church was plain in this question, which had as it were been more forcibly brought home to them in the events of the last few years which made the colored people to occupy higher positions in the community.

The reverend gentleman concluded by introducing the Hon. T. J. Bigham, who strongly favored the enterprise and thought it eminently practicable and praiseworthy. He had often thought of the duty of the church in this respect, but more so since the occurrences of the last eight years, which had, on this continent, so changed the relations between the two races. Heretofore the colored people, for the most part, slaves have been, without any advantages of education, or even proper religious culture. In the Providence of God, however, their embarrassments have been swept away, and they now stand in a more favorable condition. In a few years, and probably less than two, they would be invested with the rights of citizenship, and it was necesary that they should be fully qualified to discharge the duties which would by this change devolve upon them. They must be educated, for with higher privileges would come higher responsibilities. Especially, should they be made acquainted with those higher and more important duties which they owed to God. All of these must be performed in a proper manner, and nowhere but in the church could they receive the proper education to fit them for a new sphere in life. In this respect he considered the Episcopal church especially adapted to their needs, in its doctrines, liturgy and policy, which was made apparent in the fact that in the Southern States where most of the colored people were, the Episcopal Church was largely predominant. He felt no sectarian spirit against other denominations, but spoke from a feeling that Episcopal usages and church government were admirably adapted to the wants of the colored race.

A large propotion of the colord people were Methodists, but as this was only an off shoot of the Episcopal church, it would doubtless, in a short time judging from present indications unite with the mother church on his continent, at least, where there were no state embarassments to such a union. The speaker dwelt at considerable length on the history of the Episcopal Church, and contended that as it stood in America it approached nearer than any other organization to the Apostolic establishment. He concluded by hoping that the enterprise which they had been called to consider would result in the establishment of the enterprise.

Mr. James H. Sewell next made a few remarks, and suggested the appointment of a committee to consider the matter and report upon its feasibility at a future meeting. The suggestion was acted upon, and Messrs. Bigham and Sewell appointed on behalf of the white people, and Messrs. Pulpress and Dale for the colored.

Mr. Pulpress, although a Methodist, favored the idea, and thought it would bring a great many into the Church who now went nowhere, because they were not suited in church government. He felt honored in being chosen as one of the Committee, and would endeavor to investigate the matter fully.

Rev. Dr. Brooke said the Committee merely were to consider the feasibility of the measure, and report accordingly. No one was committed to anything by the appointment. The reverend gentleman invited all persons, whether favorable or not to the enterprise, to call upon him for consultation. He wished to have it thoroughly discussed before proceeding in the matter.

The meeting adjourned with religious services, subject to the call of the Committee when ready to report.

Pastorial Letter, &c.

To the Clergy and Congregations of the Diocese of Pittsburgh:

BRETHREN—In pursuance of the "Resolution" of the last General Convention, I hereby license for use in the public worship of our Congregations in this Diocese, the "Selected Hymns from Hymns Ancient and Modern, and Hymns for Church and Home," as printed in the book entitled "The Additional and Selected Hymns," and just published by E. P. Durten & Co. This license of new hymns has been thus long delayed, in expectation of the Hymn Book now issued. In compliance with the request made by other Bishops as well as by myself, the 65 "Additional Hymns" authorized for use three years ago, make the first part of this Hymn Book; so that the usual aditions of the Prayer Book, and this one volume, may furnish all the Psalms and Hymns for use in our public worship.

The "Selected Hhymns" add to our previous collections 388 new hymns—171 being taken from "Hymns Ancient and Modern," and 217 from "Hymns for Church and Home." Among these "Selected Hymns" there are some that increase a little our too scanty supply of hymns for the Home and Closet. This is a gain which will be, perhaps, most appreciated where the want has been most felt—among those who cannot have many books, and who expect their Church Hymn book to meet the needs of Home and Closet, as they see that other "Hymn Books" usually do. I heartily commend this book for use in the Family and Private Devotions of the people of my Diocese.

I also license for use (if any Rector so prefer) in public worship, the "Hymns for Church and Home;" and, also, "Hymns Ancient and Modern"—excepting from the latter book, the hymns as therein given and numbered 46, 50, 53, 96, 98, 163, 203, 206, 210, 212, 228, 248, 249, 250, 259, 268, 269. These seventeen excepted hymns, and any appendix beyond hymn No. 273 (having been published among us since the action of the General Convention in October, 1868), are not included in this License for use in this Diocese.

Praying God to give you His grace, that you may sing with the spirit and sing with the understanding also,

I am, dear brethren, faithfully and affectionately, your Pastor in Christ.

JOHN B. KERFOOT,
Bishop of Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 15th, 1869.

WM. F. STEWART, Esq., of Brookville, is Chairman of the Republican Committee of Jefferson county.

THOU BRINGEST ME LIFE—LUNG-WORT.

One of the truest and most suggestive ideas can be obtained from the caption at the head of this article; for of all diseases which impair human health and shorten human life, none are more prevalent than those which affect the lungs and pulmonary tissues. Whether we regard lung diseases in the light of a merely slight cough, which is but the fore-runner of a more serious malady, or as a deep lesion corroding and dissolving the pulmonary structure, it is always pregnant with evil and foreboding of disaster. In no class of maladies should the physician or the friends and family of the patient be more seriously forewarned than in those of the lungs, for it is in them that early and effielent treatment is most desirable, and it is then that danger can be warded off and a cure effected. In DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE you have a medicine of the greatest value in all these conditions. An alterative, a tonic, a nutrient and resolvent, succoring nature and sustaining the recuperative powers of the system, Its beautiful workings, in harmony with the regular functions, can be readily observed by the use of one or two bottles: it will soon break up the chain of morbid sympathies that disturb the harmonious workings of the animal economy. The harrassing cough, the painful respiration, the sputum streaked with blood, will soon give place to the normal and proper workings of health and vigor.

An aggregated experience of over thirty years has enabled Dr. Keyser, in the compounding of his LUNG CURE, to give new hope to the consumptive invalid and at the same time speedy relief in those now prevalent, catarrhal and throat affections, so distressing in their effects and so almost certainly fatal in their tendencies, unless cured by some appropriate remedy. DR. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is so thorough and efficient, that any one who has ever used it, will never be without it in the house. It will often cure when everything else fails, and in simple cases will cure oftentimes in a few days.

The attention of patients, as well as medical men, is respectfully invited to this new and valuable addition to the pharmacy of the country.

DR. KEYSER may be consulted every day until 1 o'clock P. M. at his Great Medicine Store, 167 Liberty street, and from 4 to 6 and 7 to 9 at night.

A DEFENSIVE MEDICINE.

"In time of peace prepare for war," is a sound military maxim. "Let not the sickly season find you unprepared," is an equally good rule in medical jurisprudence. The man must be made of iron who finds himself at the close of summer as strong as at its commencement. Such a phenomenon is rare, even among the most robust of the human family. Muscular and constitutional vigor oozes out of us in the broiling weather of July and August, and few of us, at the opening of the Fall, are in the best possible condition to defy the unhealthy influences of the season.

Fever and ague and bilious remittent fevers, together with a variety of complaints that affect the digestive organs, the liver and the bowels, form a portion of the autumn programme. Bear in mind that exhaustion invites these disorders, and that staminal vigor enables the system to repel them. "To be weak is to be miserable," says Satan to his defeated legions, in 'Paradise Lost,'" and the axiom is correct, though it comes from an evil source.

Ho! then, ye weak and feeble, fortify yourselves against the invisible enemy that invades the Autumnal air: The best defence against miasma is a course of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This rare vegetable tonic will improve your appetite, stimulate your digestion, give firmness to your nerves, invigorate your muscular fibre, regulate your secretions, cheer your spirits, and put your entire physique in perfect working order. It is easily done. The standard tonic and alterative which will recuperate and build you up, is not "bad to take," but, on the contrary, a pleasant medicine.

See, however, that you have the genuine article. There are imitations and counterfeits in the market, and they are all worthless or deleterious. Bear in mind that HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS is sold only in glass, (never by the gallon or cask), and that each bottle bears a label surmounted by a vignette of St. George and the Dragon, and our revenue stamp over the cork.

These Bonds pay seven per cent. in Gold; have thirty years to run; are Free from Government Taxation; are secured by a Land Grant of Three Million Acres of the Finest Lands in Kansas and Colorado. In addition to this special grant the Company also owns Three Millions of Acres in Kansas, which are being rapidly sold to develop the country and improve the road. They are a first mortgage upon the extension of the road from Sheridan, Kansas, to Denver, Colorado. The road in operation, 417 miles long, upon which it is also a mortgage, NOW EARNS MORE THAN ENOUGH NET INCOME TO PAY THE INTEREST ON THE NEW LOAN. There is no better security in the market—this being in some respects better than Government Securities. PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST PAYABLE IN GOLD. Price 96, and accrued Interest, in Currency. The Pittsburgh Gazette.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, September 18 1869.

Money active and firm at 7 per cent for gold for call loans, some brokers compelled to pay a commission for money, owing to a scracity of smaller notes continuously coupled with an increased demand from the South. Bank statement is more favorable, but net results show the Bank, only $225,000 stronger in their reserve decrease on loans. Deposits shows a contraction in consequence of a drain of currency to move crops, and it is estimated that $3,000,000 were sent South and West during the week. Loans $268,496 024; decrease $2,368,509. Specie, $14,558,189; decrease, $403,957. Circulation, $33,972,758. Increase. $8,563. Deposits, $185,390,130; decrease, $3,433,194. Legal Tenders $21,259,197; decrease, $228,670.

Meetings of the New York Central and Hudson River directors are called for next Wednesday, to take final action on the consolidation question. This statement changed the aspect of affairs on Stock Exchange, and prices have taken a sharp turn upward. Sterling nominal at 7¼@7¾. Gold opened at 136⅝, touched 136⅝, and closed at 136¼@136⅝. Carrying rates 1-16@¼ till Monday, and 6@8 per cent. per annum.

Clearances, $90,000,000. Exports for the week, $313,119.

Government's firm. Coupons of 1881, 121¾@121¼; do. '62, 121½@122; do. '64, 120½@120¾; do. '65, 120⅞@121; do new, 119¼@119¾; do. '67, 119¼@119⅝; do. '68, 119¼@119½; 10-40s, 109⅞@110; Pacifics, 109@109¼.

State bonds dull but new Tennessees higher; Missouris, 86¼; old Tennessees, 61; new Tennessee, 55¾; old Virginias, 54⅝; new do., 58¾; old North Carolinas, 51½; new do., 47¼.

Stocks have been feverish and unsettled during most of the day, and many weak holders have been forced to sell, their margins having been wiped out. No failures have been announced, however, though it is rumored one or two houses have made private settlements. In the afternoon the market was active and excited with a sharp upward turn, New York Central rising from 196¾ to 204, and Pacific Mail from 65¾ to 72. The advance on the balance of the list was less marked. The movements of the general market this afternoon seem to justify the report of yesterday that a party was forming to give the market an upward turn. At the close prices were a little off from the highest and the market unsettled.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, Sept. 18, 1869.

REVIEW FOR THE WEEK.

The oil market has been exceedingly feverish for two or three days past, and on Wednesday and Thursday the sales were unusually large. Yesterday and today, however, notwithstanding the feeling was very sensitive, the market was weak, and compared with the two days preceding, prices were lower. At a decline of about a quarter, the market appeared to be firm to-day, which may be attributed in part to the fact that Antwerp has still further advanced, being quoted up to 57½.

We want to say a word or two more in regard to the complaints raised on Friday in reference to the shipments. As noted yesterday, we were charged by certain parties with reporting more oil than was actually shipped, and to substantiate the charge, several gentleman, engaged in the trade, it is said, made a careful examination at the office of the Allegheny Valley Railroad Company, and detected several important errors. Now we do not dispute but what these gentlemen may have honestly believed they were right in so stating, but we are satisfied that facts and figures will not bear them out in their assertions. In order to make ourselves doubly sure, we went over the manifests again to-day in company with a reliable and responsible dealer, whose feelings in regard to the market are in sympathy with theirs, and the shipments on the days complained of, as well as during the entire week, were just exactly what we made them, not an error of a single barrel or case. The only error, if such it can be called, was in reporting two days shipments in one, and, as noted yesterday, we propose hereafter when this occurs to so state at the time. Now we know that it is the desire of the trade at large to have a fair and square report in regard to the shipments, as well as everything else, and this is what we have endeavored to give, but it does seem to us that there are some persons engaged in the business who are entirely too suspicious, who imagine that reporters are very slippery and are bought and sold like oil, benzine, or any other commodity of a slippery and dangerous character. As we stated yesterday, we are always willing to make corrections when satisfied that we are wrong; but would it not be wise for parties who are suspicious that there is something wrong, to investigate more carefully and not to make charges until satisfied they can stand by them?

Just here we take occasion to say that we are as independent in the commercial department of the GAZETTE, as in all the others, and recognize neither clique nor faction in making out our reports, only aiming to be fair and impartial, faithful and correct in all our figures and statements. If the truth, when told, should happen to damage pecuniarily operators by influencing the market, we should not be held responsible, as our duty is to the entire community, ignoring all discrimination in favor of or against any set or clique of men.

Receipts Crude this week, 10,936 bbls; last week, 15,027; from January 1st to date, 574,938 bbls; same time last year, 809,643; Exports Refined this week, 15,221 bbls; last week, 6,655; from January 1st to date, 377,033; same time last year, 477,933; Sales this week, 104,000 bbls, last week, 41,660.

It is well enough perhaps to note that we make up our weekly statistics for the week ending on Friday, and Saturday's receipts and shipments are always included in the report of the following week.

A private telegram from Philadelphia this afternoon reports the stock on hand in that market at 34,807 bbls; vessels loading equal to 53,284 bbls; on board, 24,984 bbls.

CRUDE.

Market dull and quiet but nominally unchanged. Sales 500 bbls spot at 14¾; and 1,000 seller all year at 14¼. Buyers option all year, reported as having been offered at 15 to 15¼.

REFINED.

Market quiet and unchanged—not a single sale reported. September quoted at 32½@32¾; October to December offered at 32¼. Business is usually very quiet on Saturdays.

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, September 18.—Market steady and fairly active; the only change of importance to note is a decline of ½c in Wyoming 4-4 Bleached Muslins, which are now selling at 11½c. All Bleached Muslins are depressed, and so are Canton Flannels of most makes and heavy Brown Sheetings, which are selling at 16@16½c, and paying no profit. Good styles of fresh Madder Prints are buoyant and saleable, but poor styles are comparatively depressed; Briggs Prints will be offered Monday at 9¾c. Large dry goods jobbing houses have been doing a rushing trade this week, while clothing houses are doing very little. The cotton market has been depressed, and this fact has a tendency to restrict large purchases of cotton goods.

NEW ORLEANS, September 18.—Cotton steady and in fair demand at 29¼@29½c for middlings, with sales of 1,100 bales; receipts, 484 bales; exports coastwise, 1,482 bales. Flour; $5,75 for superfine, and $6,10@6,25 for extras. Oats 60c. Bran $1,05. Hay is unchanged. Pork $34,50. Bacon; 17c for shoulders, 20@20¼c for sides, and hams 24@25c. Lard 19½@22c. Sugar 14½c. Molasses 60@70c. Whisky unchanged. Coffee is unchanged. Gold 135¼. Sterling 46½. New York Sight par@¼ discount.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 18.—Flour dull and demand light; western superfine at $6@6,25. Wheat steady; prime to choice at $1,55@1,63. Corn firm; prime white at $1,28, and yellow at $1,20@1,22. Oats dull at 58@61c. Rye at $1.10@1,15. Mess Pork at $33@34. Bacon firm. Lard quiet at 19¼@19¾. Whisky moderately animated at $1,16@1,17.

CUES AND NOTES OF MUSIC.

MRS. LANDER is still in England.

BOOTH is making money with his theatre.

MISS KATE BATEMAN is in New York as incomparable as ever.

MRS. SCOTT SIDDONS is now crossing the briny deep, coming westward again.

JOHN E. OWENS is said to be funnier now in the Victims than in any thing else.

PESARO, the birthplace of Rossini, has just been having a musical festival to his memory.

ROSSINI'S Mass will be produced this winter at St. Petersburg, Warsaw and Moscow.

LUCCA was paid this summer 5,000 francs for singing at one concert at the Wiesbaden Kurhaus.

THALBERG looks as fresh and young as ever. His hands are the smallest of any of the great pianists.

JEFFERSON is worth a good deal of money, and his Rip Van Winkle is still a Fortunatus' purse to him.

WAGNER is in fresh trouble, for it is alleged that he has eloped with the wife of Bulow, the son-in-law of Liszt.

ZUHNAR BOUFFAR is the name of the latest opera bouffe prima donna, in Paris. She has made a hit as the Grand Duchess.

EDWIN ADAMS has made a real sensation in Chicago. His principle role has been Enoch Arden in the drama of that name.

MARGATE, the English watering place, boasts of a very successful "Hall by the Sea," where Parepa has been among the singers.

ENGLISH versions of "Don Giovanni" and "Rigoletto" have lately been sung in England, with Madame Haigh Dyer as the prima donna.

BOTTERO, the buffo singer, who appeared last season in London, is described by the Saturday Review as a buffo calculated to draw tears.

AT A Milan theatre lately Pacini's opera of "Saffo" was sung without any tenor, and seemed to please the audience as well as if they had one.

ADELINA PATTI has been making her usual successes at the Homburg opera, though wretchedly supported. A stall at performances cost a gold louis.

AT the recent sixteenth triennial Norfolk and Norwich musical festival, Tietjens, Murska; Trebelli, Bettini, Feli and Rigby were among the singers.

PADUA, Italy, is to have a new musical paper, called La Melodie, to which Verdi, Petrella, Mercadante, and other well known composers, will contribute.

HANDEL'S "Acis and Galatea," lately revived at the Princess Theatre, London, has proved a pecuniary failure; yet it was most admirably mounted and sung.

MADAME PURCELL has lately died in her thirtieth year. She was but little known in London, though popular in the provinces as a prima donna in English opera.

A WALTZ composed by Bela, and called Am schoen en Rhein gedenk ich dein, is gaining in Vienna a popularity that rivals the similar compositions of Strauss.

THE whole season of opera just closed in London may be summed up in two words Nilssen and Patti. Everything and everybody have been subservient to them.

HENRY HAIGH is to be the tenor of Miss Riching's opera troupe; which by the way, is the first musical company to announce a benefit for the Avondale sufferers.

THE Anvil Chorus is to be sung at the Sydenham Crystal Palace by eight thousand voices with accompaniment of anvils, cannon and bells. The idea is sneered at by the London musical journals.

MR. MACLAGAN, of the London Alhambra, is the original "Captain Jinks" (for which he deserves to be broken at the wheel), but is nevertheless an accomplished singer, and has sung in oratorio with first-class artists.

ROSE HERSEE, the light prima donna of the Parepa troupe, is a little winsome creature, English by birth, and quite a popular soprano in her native country. She has been favorably received at the Crystal Palace concerts.

"RIGOLETTO" was to have been the gala opera on the occasion of the expected visit of the French Empress to Corsica; but the Empress did not get there, so the opera troupe from Milan did not have the opportunity of singing before Napoleon's wife.

BOUCICAULT maintains that all who take exception to the immorality of "Formosa" must, to be consistent, find equal fault with the operas of "Norma," "Rigoletto," "Don Giovana," "Travitta," "Lucretia," "Faust" and "Somnambula."

MEYER LUTS, the composer, has written for Nilssen a new scene, entitled "Xenia, the Scandinavian Maiden." Its theme is said to have all the graceful flow and quaint charm of a national melody. A shilling edition of Nilssen's life has also been published, with a portrait.

WIENIAWSKI, who lately visited the Sultan, was directed to play twenty-three pieces, one after the other, and as soon as he had concluded, received two hundred pounds in gold. He was not presented to the Sultan, who placed himself in a corner so that the player could not see him.

Fall and Winter Fashions for Men.

The fashion for frock coats during the coming fall and winter will be the Prince Albert style, double breasted and short in the skirt, which has been worn during the past season. It will be even somewhat more abbreviated than hitherto. The colors are to be blue, black, olive or brown, as may be desired. Entire suits of English and Scotch black and gray plaids will also be in vogue. A similar frock coat will be worn for evening, half-dress suits in making calls, etc, the materials being meltons and plain dark beavers of various shades.

The full dress evening suits for receptions and small gatherings still consist of a black dress coat, with black vest and black pantaloons. The ball and opera costumes are to be composed of a blue, olive or claret dress coat, with buttons to match of similar colors, a white vest, and light plaid pantaloons. To this decided innovation over the late funeral garb a few adventurous spirits may add brass buttons, in the style of twenty-five years ago.

Overcoats will be in the sack style, single breasted and with fly fronts. The materials are to be of meltons, fur beavers, chinchillas, and other rough materials.

For sporting and driving coats and vests velveteens will continue to have the preference, the colors being brown, dark green or olive, and the pantaloons of light shades.

Pantaloons will continue in the present somewhat tight style, fitting in the same manner round the boot, but will be less striped at the side than formerly. The material will be chiefly of gray plaids.

Vests for day wear will be of the present gay and varied colors, cut low, with plain rolls. The light fancy vestings, for day or evening, will be of white cassimeres and kerseys, full and double-breasted, in the English lappel style and buttoned high. For exclusively evening wear, they are to be cut low, with three buttons and a rolling collar.

The materials used in the more extensive establishments will continue to be largely foreign, but more American cloth will be used than heretofore, especially for pantaloons. Foreign manufactures can be well imitated, especially in pantaloon materials, even with our inferior wool, and for ready-made clothing they will continue to be almost entirely used.

Neckties will be both white and black as heretofore.

Silk hats will be much similar to the style of last spring, with low, belled crowns, and brims rather broad; but they will be, if anything, slightly lower—more of the bell shape, and with a greater curve in the rim. Of the low crowned hats, the broad, straight brimmed Wharton style, of smoke color, is to be much worn, with a wide, contrasting black band, resembling mourning. The other numberless styles of hats in use will continue of the same pattern and varied as heretofore.

Boots and shoes will be rounded at the toes, and similar in style to those now in use.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Singular Superstition in Western Massachusetts.

In the southern part of the town of Marlboro, Mass., near the Connecticut line, lives a family by the name of F——. It seems that this family is predisposed to consumption. About the first of January one of the family, Emily, a girl eighteen years old, died of this disease and was buried in Cornwall Hollow, Conn. The mother and brother, Charles, and a sister, Eliza, remain. Charles is now wasting away with the same disease. During the summer a man by the name of Case, who lives in a town to the east, was in that section hiring cattle pasture. He met this family of F—— and told them some awful stories of how persons nearly dead with consumption had been cured by the digging up of some relatives who had died with the same disease, taking out the liver, lungs, heart, etc., where fresh blood would be found, and burning them, after this the sick ones would improve until health was restored.

The reason assigned was that there was a sort of vital current existing between the living and dead—that these organs in the dead body that contained fresh blood and appeared to be alive, would continue to live until the vitality of the living subject was exhausted, unless said organs were taken out and consumed by fire. Eliza heard and believed these stories, and if they ever appeared absurd, they soon became matters of fact to her. Dr. S. of an adjoining town was importuned to do the dissecting—no rest could be obtained until the thing was accomplished. Strange to say the doctor consented. The 10th of last August the doctor and half a dozen, more or less friends dug up the body of Emily, cut out the liver and a portion of the lungs, took them some distance from the grave and burned them. The heart and a portion of the lungs were found decayed—that portion of the lungs supposed to be destroyed before her death—and fresh blood was found in the liver, enough to thoroughly besmear the doctor's hands. These are facts.

Smoke and Rain Drops.

The report of the English inspectors, appointed to investigate the various causes of the contamination of the atmosphere in the manufacturing towns of Great Britain, is said to furnish valuable addition to knowledge on the subject of the ingredients of the "smoke" caused by the consumption of coal. In London a funereal hue is imparted to the statutes of public men, the exteriors of churches and houses, the trees, the birds and the clothing worn by the inhabitants, and in other parts of England the smoke nuisance is almost as intolerable. The "blacks," however, are not the only subjects of complaint, for in some districts the smoke arising from coal, highly impregnated with sulphur, condenses into an acid rain which kills the vegetation and is exceeding deleterious to the health of man and animals. The chemist employed by the the inspectors under the English "Alkali" act has acquired such skill in his investigations that he can classify smoke in the clearest and most definite manner, and can dissect or dissolve it into its primitive ingredients. In the same way this skilful chemist has been enabled to analyze the rain drops, and to ascertain how much acid, how much soot and how much salt from the sea they contain. The rain which falls around certain large towns has been examined, and large diagrams of the drops have been prepared, in which the most curious crystal pictures are delineated. The drop of Manchester rain resembles the splintering and slivering of a large block of ice in which slabs of stone are incrusted; London rain resembles the branches of a large tree deprived of its leaves, and the Newcastle rain appears to contain blocks of coal. These investigations are very minute and "spores" the fifty-thousandth part of an inch in diameter, have been detected and enumerated.

BEAUREGARD'S PLEASANTRY.—But what young man is that whose raven locks and mustache may be seen wherever beauty and grace reign most decidedly? Some one whispers that it is General Beauregard, the great engineer and gallant soldier; but surely that cannot be, for the last time I saw that great chieftain his hair was as white as the driven snow, and his bronzed features were not those of the ball-room gallant. But another look convinces me that my friend is right, especially when I remember the ready reply made by the brave chieftain to one of the belles who twitted him on this change. "When I was in command of an army," said he, "I used to dye my hair white to impress my soldiers with a proper respect for my age and position; but after the war closed, and the necessity passed away, I allowed it to return to its natural color!" May his locks never turn gray, and may he live long to enjoy the society of which he is so bright an ornament.—Correspondence Richmond Dispatch.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the livor and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use) to deal with, great cure, that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much; they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abscesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal, and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousands similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with the same remarkable success. Full directions accompany each, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists. my18:151-G&F

Avondale Relief Meeting.

Let none of our charitable and philanthropic readers fail to be present at the public meeting of citizens called for this afternoon at the Mayor's office, to take some action looking towards the substantial relief of the widows and orphans left penniless by the recent terrible accident in the Avondale coal mines. Pittsburgh, the great coal city of the country, cannot well refuse to reach forth the arm of help to the unfortunate and helpless ones.

Mayor Drum yesterday morning disposed of ten common cases.

Desertion.—Alderman Donaldson on Saturday committed to jail Andrew Leak, for abandonment, on oath of his wife, Annie.

Committed.—Peter Tatro, arrested, Friday, on a capias, an account of which we published, was committed yesterday in default of bail.

The Public Night Schools of the city will re-open to-night for the fall and winter term. Application for permits of entry must be made to the local Boards of Directors.

Recruits.—Mary Casey and Annie O'Hare were enlisted for the Work House service yesterday. They were arrested on a charge of vagrancy and sent up for thirty days each.

There is a scarcity of small bank notes in business circles. Uncle Samuel should at once supply another invoice, as change making without one and two dollar bills is a difficult matter.

Fatal Accident.—A man, whose name we did not learn, was instantly killed by falling over the tipple at S. C. Risher's coal works, McKeesport, Saturday. The Coroner will hold an inquest this morning.

Mr. G. W. Lyons of the First ward, Allegheny, will be found at his office, 307 Rebeca street, Allegheny, from six to eight o'clock every evening, to register voters, until ten days before the election.

Committed.—On Saturday Jas. Smith was committed to jail on a charge of perjury, preferred against him before Alderman Butler, by John Boland, the particulars of which have been published.

Family Quarrel.—Margret Hinkle and her Husband Joseph, had a little set to, Saturday morning, Josheph was later in the dao committed to jail by Alderman Bolster, for assault and battery on oath of his wife.

Fined.—John Cheatem, of the eighth Ward, yesterday afternoon was fined ten dollars by Mayor Drum for indulging first in liquor, and next a fight, during which he knocked down one of his neighbors.

Burglary.—Kirker & Co's. grocery store, on Main street, Allegheny, was entered early Saturday morning and robbed of fifteen dollars, and a quantity of goods. The theives pried open a door in the rear to get in. No clue.

Aquatic.—The boat race between Sharpe and Scott, announced in Saturday's GAZETTE, came off at the appointed time. Sharpe was declared the winner, and the stakes, one hundred dollars aside, were handed over to him.

In Again.—The notorious Wm. Deeny, who withln the last two months has invested about one hundred dollars at the tombs, was again brought before the Mayor Saturday evening for whipping his wife. He will be sent over this morning.

It is Very rarely that property so eligible and desirable as that advertised by Thomas B. Updike, can be obtained at public or private sale. It comprises the house and grounds of the late Mrs. Stockton, on Stockton avenue, Allegheny.

Councils will meet this afternoon. It is highly probable that the new market house project will be brought up after the water question is disposed of. No member should be out of his seat today, as the meeting will be of the utmost importance.

Mayor's Court.—At the morning court, yesterday, Mayor Brush presiding, thirty-nine cases were disposed of as follows: Seventeen paid fines, nineteen were committed and three were discharged. The charges were: disorderly conduct. 21; drunkenness, 12; vagrancy, 6.

To the House of Refuge.—Bridget Kane, a young girl about fourteen years of age, was arrested Saturday evening, at the instance of her mother, for incorrigibility, and confined in the lockup, where she remained until this morning, when she was taken to the House of Refuge.

Mountain House.—This popular summer resort at Cresson, top of the Allegheny Mountain, so admirably kept by George W. Mullin, Esq., will close for this season on Thursday, September 23d, inst. Few places were as extensively patronized as this one: frequently rooms could not be secured, such was the throng of visitors.

Sixteenth Ward.—In the Sheriff's and Mayor's election proclamations to the voters of the Sixteenth Ward were called to meet at the old Wigwam instead of the feed store of James Dugan, on Greensburgh pike, near Allen street. This change was made by ordinance of City Councils. The proclamations have been corrected in this regard.

Leg Amputated.—Mr. Henry C. Whaley, a brakeman on the Connellsville Railroad, while assisting to make up a train at the depot in the city Thursday of last week had his left leg severely crushed by being caught between the dead blocks of two freight cars. He was removed to his residence at Connellsville, where on Saturday the injured limb was amputated by Drs. Rodgers and Phillips of that place.

The Lecture of Dr. Rodgers, of Memphis, Tenn., last night in St. Pauls Cathedral was largely attended, a fair proportion of the audience being Protestant. His subject "The Tendency of Ritualism," was handled in a controversional manner and developed the genius and talent of the learned gentleman, who from High Church ideas drifted into the Catholic faith. He is a pleasing lecturer, having choice and elegant language and throughout aims to reason with rather than to offend those who widely differ with him in his opinions.

James Slatterley and his wife Mary disturbed the quiet of the Second ward, Allegheny, by their festivities on Saturday, night. They were arrested and consigned by the Mayor to the care of Warden Scandrett, James for thirty and Mary for twenty days.

Painful.—Henry Biltner, employed at Armstrong's cork factory, Third avenue, while working around a circular saw Saturday morning, had the muscles, arteries and bone of his wrist badly lacerated. Dr. McCook attended to his injuries, after which he was taken to his residence, Gibbon street.

Suicide.—Henry Raithal committed suicide, at his residence on the corner of Forty-fourth and Penn streets, about four o'clock yesterday morning, by hanging himself. He has for some time been insane. Coroner Clawson held an inquest yesterday, and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the facts.

Braddock's Fields Meeting.—A large and enthusiastic Republican meeting was held at Braddock's Fields on Saturday evening. Speeches were made by Miles Humphrey and W. T. Haines, Esqs. They fully and ably discussed the issues of the campaign, and were listened to with marked attention. The meeting adjourned with three times three cheers for Geary and Williams.

Unpleasant.—The neighborly relations between Annie Smith and Charles Edwards, of Temperanceville, are of an unpleasant character, judging from a threat which Charles is said to have made, to the effect that he would throw Annie off a porch and break her neck, and which led to a surety of the peace information before Alderman McMaster, Saturday, causing Charles to be arrested and held for a further investigation of the circumstances.

Destruction of a Glass House.

Saturday morning about half past one o'clock, the glass house of Charles Jeremy & Co., a large frame structure located on Smaliman street, was destroyed by fire. When first discovered and an alarm sounded from box 71, the flames had gained too great headway to be successfully checked, and it was with great difficulty the adjoining buildings were saved. The loss has not been accurately ascertained. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary, as the establishment had not been running for some time.

Miners' Meeting.

A meeting of coal miners was held Saturday evening, at the Miners' Home, Grant street, Levi Lewis proprietor, relative to the Avondale coal mine disaster. Resolutions of condolence were adopted, but in consequence of the small attendance, no steps were taken toward raising funds for the relief of the sufferers, and the meeting adjourned. Another meeting will be held at the same place, Saturday afternoon, October 20th, when a large attendance is expected. All coal miners and others sympathising with the widows and orphans of the miners who perished in the mines, are requested to be present.

Foolishness.

Another foolish attempt to commit suicide was made at the Union Depot Saturday morning. A young girl arrived on a western train at the depot about nine o'clock and inquired what time she could proceed to Connellsville. Being informed that three o'clock in the afternoon was the earliest hour, she sat down in the room apparently to wait. In a short time she was observed to swallow something, from which she became sick in a few mements after. A physician was summoned and the usual remedies applied, when she became well again. She had taken a large dose of morphine, but for what purpose, or who she was, she refused to tell. At three o'clock she left the depot and started to Connellsville.

Important Iron Case.

A Washington letter writer says:

Judge Spaulding, of Ohio, has been here several days in behalf of the Cleveland rolling mills, in connection with an attorney of Dilworth, Porter & Co., of Pittsburgh, protesting against the payment of heavy back assessments on the manufacture of pig iron. The claim of these companies is that as they take their own ore and work it directly into plate they are not liable to the tax imposed on the production of pig iron. The payment of a large sum in the case has been suspended for a long time, and the department is now pressing for payment. It is understood that the case will be decided against the iron merchants. Upon the decision of this case, depend a number of similar ones east and west.

Conviction and Sentence of Officer Wray.

Our readers are familiar with the arrest of William C. Wray, an ex-police officer and cigar dealer of this city, and his trial at Uniontown, on a charge of burglary, committed a year or two since in Fayette county. Wray was convicted of the charge, notwithstanding some of our most prominent citizens, who had known him officially and otherwise, testified to his good character. A motion was made for a new trial in the case, and it was argued before Judge Gilmore, at Uniontown. His Honor overruled the motion and sentenced Wray to five years imprisonment in the Western Penitentiary. The prisoner has much public sympathy with him in this community, where he is so well and favorably known and where for the last twenty years he has sustained high reputation, both as a citizen and police officer.

Shooting Affray.

Saturday evening, between four and five o'clock, a shooting affray took place at Saw Mill Run, between Thomas Caroon and his son-in-law, Frank Schenck, in which the latter received a fatal ball in his abdomen, fired from a pistol in the hands of Caroon. Caroon is the proprietor of a hotel at the mouth of Saw Mill Run, in Temperanceville, and his son-in-law, Schenck, was keeping bar for him. Saturday the bar-keeper got drunk while absent from the hotel, and when he returned Caroon told him he need not go on duty, that he was too drunk to attend to business. This, it appears, offended Schenck, who went out and picked up a stone, and coming toward Caroon, who had followed him to the door, threw it at him. The stone went wide of the mark and Caroon drew a revolver and fired. The ball hit a button of Schenck's pants and glanced off running around the side of the abdomen, inflicting a painful but not serious wound. Drs. McCook and Murdock were summoned, and after extracting the ball dressed the wound. Information was made against Caroon for felonious assault and battery, and officers Rivers and Mackrel, of the Mayor's police, arrested him at the house of the wounded man. H. was held to bail in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance at Court.

EXCURSION.

Master Mechanics Take a Railroad Ride —In Coal Mines—At Cambria Iron Works—Altoona Shops—New Car Brake—Courtesies Acknowledged.

Saturday the Master Mechanics attending the meeting of their Association in the city, were treated by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company to an excursion to Altoona. For this occasion the regular Walls Accommodation was appropriated, with a view of giving the excursionists an opportunity to witness the workings of the patent car brake which has been in use on that train for some time. There were five passenger and one baggage (or refreshment) car, with engine 360. Richard Clay engineer, and Henry McIntyre fireman. The conductor having charge was James Dinwiddie.

At six o'clock and thirty minutes, the time designated, there were assembled at the Union Depot the entire delegation of Master Mechanics—a few of whom were accompanied by ladies—resident manufacturers, agents of others, citizens of leisure and a fair representation from the city Press, the guests, numbering one hundred and fifty, more or less. The railroad attaches accompanying the party were Robert Pitcairn, Superintendent, J. McC. Creighton General Agent, D. O. Shafer, master mechanic, R. S. Ramsey, foreman of car shops, all of the Pittsburgh division, D. M. Garrett, master mechanic, W. F. Rich, foreman of the car shops, of Philadelphia division, and I. W. Vanhouten, general overseer of car department.

A necessary and very appreciable adjunct to the excursion was the Great Western brass band, which discoursed good music, but not very much of it.

THE START.

The train got off in due time, and after a short stop at East Liberty, to complete the patent brake appliances, went speeding on, the majority of the excursionists for the first time witnessing the complete governing of a train without brakemen, the engineer alone controlling, checking up much quicker and entirely without that jarring and rasping noise usual with the present braking appliances in general use. This was so manifest as to be the subject of much remark, and the excursionists watched the working of the new invention with great interest.

THROUGH A COAL MINE.

Reaching Larimer's, it was announced as part of the programme that the mines of the Westmoreland Coal Company would now be visited, and accordingly the grade to the mouth of the dismal pit was ascended. Here was in waiting a train of pit cars, divided into sections of four, each headed by a mule. After a little delay in arranging seats for the ladies of the party, we embarked and under the guidance of miners made the trip through the mountain, the distance passed under ground being about one mile and a half. Again taking the train, in waiting near the point of emergence, the journey was resumed, and none other than necessary stops made until Johnstown was reached, where a hasty visit was paid to the

CAMBRIA IRON WORKS.

Here the party were met by two other railroad attaches, A. J. Cassett, Superintendent of motive power and machinery, and Mr. Worsdell, located at Altoona. The party passed through the puddling department and rail mill of the extensive works, which cover five acres of ground and give employment to about three thousand men and boys. The object of greatest interest seemed to be a huge upright engine in the puddling mill, the cylinder of which is thirty inches, five feet stroke, with a fly wheel thirty feet ono inch in diameter and weighing fifty-six tons. The engine is classed as three hundred and fifty horse power.

Hon. D. J. Morrell, of the firm of Wood, Morrell & Co., proprietors of the works, was present and extended a cordial greeting to the excursionists, regretting that time did not permit a longer visit.

ON FOR ALTOONA.

Again embarking, the remainder of the trip to Altoona was devoted to the enjoyment of the rare mountain scenery. At the Horse Shoe Bend, where the grade is ninety-six feet to the mile, the new brake was put to a severe test, the train in descending at fair headway being brought to a full stop in a space of 420 feet. A little way beyond this point the passengers disembarked, and witnessed from the opposite track a test of the brake, demonstrating, if possible, its advantages more satisfactorily. All on board again, in a brief spell we came to the the flourishing city of Altoona, the precise time of arrival being one o'clock and fifteen minutes. After a vigorous washing of faces and hands and brushing of clothing, the excursionists eagerly awaited the call for lunch at the Logan House. It soon came, and never was there a meal more welcome or partaken of with more zest. Cheese and crackers were dispensed in abundance on the train during the trip out, but these, while they may have allayed, by no means satisfied the appetites sharpened by the ride.

THE COMPANY SHOPS.

A visit to the shops of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was next in order. The excursionists, under the lead of Messrs. Cassett and Worsdell, proceeded thence and rather hastily viewed the different departments. These shops have been often fully described by the press, and we do not propose to attempt anything of the kind on this occasion. Suffice it to say that the main portion of the work of the Company is performed in them, and nowhere else can there be found finer machinery of all sorts requisite in the building or repairing of locomotives, or in furnishing other railroad appliances. Among the latest machines introduced is one from the works of Lewis, Oliver & Philips, of our city, by which all kinds of bolts, from the smallest up to an inch, can be made at the rate of from 1,500 to 4,000 a day.

THE CAR BRAKE

Was again put to several tests in front of the Logan House, just prior to starting on the return trip, and here we may speak with more particularity concerning the invention. There is on the locomotive, under the foot board, a reservoir supplied with compressed air by an auxiliary pump, which is the power that works the brakes. Under each car there is a cylinder, the piston of which works the ordinary hand brake. Between each car is a coupling, with the valves so arranged that when the coupling is togther there is a free air passage, and when uncoupled these valves close and prevent the escape of air from the pipes. On the engine there is a three way cock, which alone works the brake, and the engineer can apply any degree of power he sees fit by letting in more or less air. George Wentinghouse, Jr., and Ralph Bagaley are the patentees.

THE TRIP BACK.

At precisely half-past three the train moved off from Altoona for the return trip, and the excursionists, many of them being thoroughly tired out, disposed themselves as comfortably as possible about the train, apparently with a common design to take it easy going home. Good time, sometimes very fast—forty miles an hour at least—was made, and Union depot reached at 7:35, in about four hours running time.

THANKS RETURNED.

At Derry, on the home trip, the excursionists went forward to the refreshment car to pay their respects to the accomplished caterer, Mr. R. S. Ramsey, and while the lunch was being partaken of a meeting was organized, with Mr. Sellers, of the Des Moines Valley Railroad, as Chairman and Mr. Dodge as Secretary. A committee appointed for the purpose reported the following:

WHEREAS, The Pennsylvania Railroad have placed at the disposal of the American Railway Master Mechanics Association a special train for an excursion to Altoona for themselves and friends, and by their untiring exertions have rendered the occasion one of unalloyed pleasure and long to be remembered, therefore be it

Resolved, That the unanimous and earnest thanks of the excursionists be hereby tendered the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; to Messrs. Pitcairn and Creighton, for the admirable train arrangements, and the gratifying pleasure of their company; to Messrs. Shaffer and Ramsey, for their assiduous attentions to the party, and for "creature comforts" furnished; to the Managers of the Westmoreland Coal Mines we are indebted for kind attention, and extraordinary experiences on the underground railway; to the Managers of the Cambria Iron Works, for their warm reception, which was literally "red hot;" to Messrs. Cassett and Worsdell, for their presence as an escort from Johnstown to Altoona; and lastly to General Superintendent E. H. Williams, for his urbane and generous reception of the Association and its invited guests. Also,

Resolved, That to the Press, whose representatives so kindly accompanied us, we desire to express our hearty thanks.

MORRIS SELLERS,
FRANK W. CUMMINGS,
L. P. DODGE,
WILLIAM METCALF,
Committee.

The report was received and adopted unanimously, and, on motion, the Secretary was directed to furnish a copy to the press.

DISPATCHES EN ROUTE.

The following telegrams were sent on the way out:

Washington and Jefferson College.

A dispatch from Williamsport, Pa., informs us that this interesting case came before His Honor, Judge McCandless, on a bill filed by holders of scholarahips, citizens of West Virginia, and was ably argued there on the 15th and 16th inst., upon a motion for a preliminary injunction, by Messrs. Shiras and Veech for the motion, and Acheson and Wilson contra. On Saturday morning, the 18th, Judge McCandless made an order granting the injunction, the import of which is to prevent the removal of any of the Professors, classes and property of the College from Canonsburg to Washington, (except the class, &c. removed there prior to February 26, 1869,) and to forbid the Treasurer of the united Colleges from receiving any funds which had belonged to Jefferson College until the further order of the Court. The question of the constitutionality of the acts of Assembly of Pennsylvania relating to the removal of March 4, 1865, and February 26, 1869, are reserved until final learning of the whole case. In the mean time, as we learn, this preliminary injunction is all the friends of the College at Cannonsburg asked, as its effect is to keep things as they were prior to the late act for the removal. We presume, therefore, that Professors Jones and Linn and the classes hitherto instructed by them, will remain at Cannonsburg, and render the election of a President and Vice President, by the Board, void, which will leave the institution without a President, Rev. Dr. Edmonds having resigned the position.

The Philadelphia Institution for the Blind.

We had the pleasure on Saturday of receiving a friendly visit from Mr. H. H. Hall, the accomplished and highly educated agent of the Pennsylvania Institution for the blind at Philadelphia. It will be remembered that this college for those so unfortunate as to be deprived of God's great gift, the sight, is calculated to teach all the useful and ornament al branches of education, and fit its scholars for many positions in active life. In addition to the mechanical departments, already under successful operation, there has recently been established a printing department, which is in charge of Mr. Hall, who comes hither, we believe, to interest the philanthropic in the great work. There is so much in favor of the project of furnishing books and music for the blind, printed in raised letters so that it can be read by the touch, that we feel that it is scarcely necessary to urge our readers to respond generously to the call made on their charities by Mr. Hall for that branch of the Institution. He has, himself, been totally blind since coming out of the recent war, and being a business man of thorough knowledge and training, his management of the printing bureau cannot fail to prove successful, and fully meet the requirements of the afflicted whose benefit and pleasure he has next and nearest his heart.

The Knife.

A cutting affray occurred on Fifth avenue Saturday evening about eight o'clock, in which William Wells, a "jour" printer, was the principal actor. Mr. Wells is a member of the Typographical Union of this city and was recently employed in a newspaper office, when there was a strike, and the proprietors of the paper, rather than submit to the unreasonable demands of the "Union side," wentout of it, and as a consequence, the "Union" hands, among whom was Wells, whose places were filled by other men, became angry and swore vengeance. At the time stated two printers, not members of the Union, were passing along Fifth avenue, and in front of the Atlantic Telegraph office met Wells, who, they allege, made an assault upon them with a knife. Charles Hubbard, one of the men, was cut on the head and received a severe gash in the hand while warding off a blow aimed at his breast. Homer D. Quest, of Newcastle, who accompanied him, received a slight cut on the cheek. Wells, it appears, was intoxicated. Hubbard made information before the Mayor yesterday morning, charging Wells with felonious assault and battery, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Burglars Arrested.

Officers Moon, Dressler and Cupps on Saturday evening arrested Samuel Mattis and Samuel G. Pilgrim on a charge of burglary. It appears that the accused were confederates of Samuel Gibson, an account of whose doings we published on Saturday. After returning from the Work House with Gibson, who was brought for a hearing before the Mayor on a charge of burglary, the officers named visited the house of Mrs. Hamilton, where they had reason to believe that some of the clothing stolen from Mr. Ruths, on Penn street, some weeks since, was secreted. They searched the house and found four coats, six vests, five pair of pants and seven shirts, a part of which was hidden in the bed occupied by Mrs. Hamilton. They were about to leave the premises when Mattis and Pilgrim came in, one of them having on his person one of the stolen vests and the other a shirt. They were taken in custody and conducted to the lock-up, where they were searched, when upon one of them was found a knife and in the pockets of the other a key and some money that had had been taken from the store of Mr. Samuel Warren, near the corner of Wylie and Fulton streets, which was entered by burglars Friday night and forty-five dollars in cash, a dirk knife, key, and other articles stolen.

In addition to the charge against Gibson by Mr. Roth, Mr. Hartney, of Allegheny, whose shoe store was burglariously entered a few week since, made information against him for burglary, a pair of the boots being found on his feet. Mr. Warren will make information against Pilgrim and Wattis this morning. Five of this gang of burglars are now in custody, and the officers named deserve great credit for the manner in which they have managed the case.

Bank President and Director Elected.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, held on Saturday, at the banking house on Fourth avenue, William Walker, Esq., was elected President of that institution, vice James Marshall, Esq., deceased. Mr. Walker has been long and favorably known in these cities as an upright, honest and successful merchant, as well as a gentleman of substantial wealth and great financial ability. He is eminently qualified to become the successor of the late Mr. Marshall, who held the position for nearly thirty years, and was acknowledged to be one of the best financiers in the country. Mr. Walker is a member of the well known firm of Bryce, Walker & Co., and William & H. Walker. His election can not fail to be satisfactory in every respect to the stockholders, as would indeed, the election of any of the other highly respectable and distinguished gentlemen, whose names have been mentioned so prominently in connection with the position.

At a recent meeting, Mr. James Marshall, Jr., son of the late President, was elected a Director. This was a handsome compliment to the dead, and a well merited honor as bestowed on the living.

As our readers are well aware, Frank L. Stephenson, Esq., is Cashier of this long established and successful institution. Although young in years, Mr. Stephenson has discharged the duties of his position with eminent ability, and we do not know that he has many, if any superiors in the banking business.

Confidence Betrayed—Alleged Heavy Larceny.

Saturday afternoon officer Blondin, of Alderman McMasters' police, arrested Thomas Dowling, porter in Henry & Nichols' shoe store, No 48 Wood street, for an alleged robbery of his employer. It seems the firm missed a lot of their stock lately, and from circumstances were led to believe that Dowling was the party interested in taking them away. To investigate the matter they had a search warrant issued by Alderman McMasters, and the premises of the suspected party, in Allegheny, searched, which resulted in the discovery of a lot of the stolen articles in the cess pool. The accused was then promptly arrested and held for a hearing. The exact amount taken is not yet known, but is thought to be very considerable. Dowling has been employed in the store for about three years, and heretofore enjoyed the fullest confidence of his employers. He is a married man and has a family.

Policeman Assaulted.

Saturday night James McHugh, while intoxicated, attempted to get into the Manchester car stables. The watchman attempted to prevent him and was knocked down. Officer Weir hearing the fuss came up just as McHugh retreated into a neighboring house. The officer followed him, but was prevented from making an arrest by Edward Revaille, who knocked him down with a sling shot. He retired, but not to be defeated, and returned in a couple of hours with reinforcements, when McHugh and Revaille were arrested. Yesterday morning each was fined twenty-five dollars by the Mayor, in default of which Revaille was committed to jail. His companion paid the fine. The officer also lodged information against Revaille for felonious assault, upon which he will have a hearing to-night.

Brutal Assault.

Margaret Klampet made information before the Mayor, yesterday, charging her brother, James Lappen, with aggravated assault and battery. It appears that the accused is foreman at Agnew's boiler shops, and some time since his nephew, Mrs. Klampet's son, who was employed in the shop, was discharged by him. The boy subsequently procured another situation, from which, it is alleged, the uncle had him discharged. Saturday the boy met him and asked him the cause of his conduct toward him, when, as the prosecutrix alleges, Lappen knocked him down and beat him shamefully. A warrant was issued.

The Ladies of the two cities are informed that Miss Bartholomew, an accomplished artist, has opened rooms at 65 Federal street, Allegheny, on the second floor, where plain and ornamental hair work is made or repaired; also ladies' hair dressing done in approved style at the shop or at their residences.
